

Application Form for Roster of Court Interpreters for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing

There are several recognized methods or modes of communication used by deaf and hard of hearing individuals. These include speech reading or lip-reading, gesturing, written communication (including computer-aided real-time transcription), and sign language. Professional certification may be obtained from non-profit organizations and government agencies in the various states. The Consortium for State Court Interpreter Certification (Consortium) has determined that the SC:L certification exam administered by the Registry of Interpreters for the Deaf is a functional equivalent to the Consortium foreign language certification exam.
